

Reality

www.realityweeklymagazine.com WEEKLY

May 28, 2012

Impressions: 1,500,000
CAV: $79,824

Could Sammi “Sweetheart” Giancola be following in the footsteps of her Jersey Shore co-star Snooki — and be pregnant with a cute little guido or guidette?

Fans had been speculating that Sammi was with child since recent photos showed her with what looked like a burgeoning bump. In some, she coyly held her hand over her mid-section.

So when Sammi held court this month at The Pool After Dark, a waterside club at Harrah’s Resort in Atlantic City, the town simply buzzed with Sammi pregnancy rumors.

According to Sammi, that’s all they are. “Even though Snooki’s having a baby, it’s not my time right now,” Sammi tells Reality Weekly. “I’m still young. I have a lot of life to live.”

As if proving the point, Sammi spent the evening with a posse of 20 friends, sipping what appeared to be vodka and club soda throughout the night.

She did not totally close the door on having a baby, however.

Don’t count motherhood out yet!

“Maybe in a couple years, or a long time down the road,” she’ll have a baby, says Sammi, 25. “Not anytime soon.”

No wonder — Sammi’s very busy!

“Right now, aside from the perfume I have coming out, I have a fitness clothing line called Sexy Sweetheart, which has sports bras, yoga pants and that type of thing,” Sammy tells RW.

“Being a health freak and a gym freak, this is something I really wanted to get into, so that’s something I’m excited about.

“I’m also coming out with a bling phone case line, which is made out of Swarovski crystals, so that’s another thing I’m really excited about.”

So, for now, she says, it’s business before baby.

“It feels really surreal and I’m excited, and I can’t wait to just move forward with each and every dream that I have coming true.” 